SCHOTT-GREELY

Announcement of the marriage of Miss Clyda Schott to Mr. Donnell Greely was received in Wrangell this week. The announcement is as follows:

MR. AND MRS. LOUIS SCHOTT announce the marriage of their daughter CLYDA LOIS

to
MR. DONNELL GREELY on Saturday, the sixth of October nineteen hundred and seventeen Oakland, California.

The bride has a wide circle of friends in Alaska, especially in Wrangell, who wish her a life long honeymoon.

OF LOCAL INTEREST

Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Harrison who have been on a big game hunt in the Cassiar district arrived in Wrangell on the Hazel B III Saturday. They will leave on the Princess Alice tomorrow night for their home in San Francisco. On the hunt Mr. Harrison bagged two moose, three caribou, one goat, three sheep and one grizzly. On a special Stone Sheep permit Mr. Harrison obtained for the California Academy of Science two rams, two ewes, and one lamb. Mrs. Harrison bagged two moose and three caribou. The Harrisons are so well pleased with their hunt in the Cassiar that they are coming back next year, and already have their guides engaged. Mr. Harrison is the San Francisco distributor for the Hudson Six.

The Sentinel this morning received a cablegram of several hundred words from the Collector of Internal Revenue regarding the new war revenue act which will after November 1, 1917, impose a tax of one cent for each ten cents or fraction thereof of the amount paid for admission to any place. This tax is to be paid by the person paying for such admission. Those collecting the admission fees are required to collect the tax also, and to make monthly returns to the Collector of Internal Revenue.

Dr. W. J. Pigg returned Saturday from Ft. Seward at Haines where he took a physical examination and passed. He expects to receive notice any day to report somewhere for medical examination. Dr. Pigg hopes soon to get a commission in the regular army. He thinks it probable that he will leave Wrangell within the next three months.

The agricultural possibilities of the Wrangell district have been shown in many ways this year. It has been demonstrated by a number of local people that spuds not only thrive here but that the yield is of a superior quality. This week Adjutant H. C. Habkirk brought us several potatoes that weighed two pounds each which were raised on his place. Considering the H. C. of L. harvesting spuds in Wrangell is like panning gold nuggets.

Lawrence Horgheim and his sister, Miss Amanda Horgheim, left on the City of Seattle Friday for southern California where they will spend the winter. Lawrence has been in poor health of late and it is hoped that the sunshine of the southland will effect a complete recovery.

Mrs. W. Scott Simpson and son, Fred, and Mrs. Simpson's niece, Miss Lizzie Hankin, arrived from Telegraph Creek Saturday on the Hazel B III. They will take passage on the Princess Alice for Vancouver where they will spend the winter.

F. N. Fenton, mining engineer with the Dease Lake syndicate, and P. O. Earrel, superintendent for the same company, arrived in Wrangell Saturday on the Hazel B III. They will take passage on the Princess Alice for Vancouver where they will spend the winter.

Dr. J. Earl Evans of Tacoma who spent the summer rusticated in the vicinity of Wrangell, left for his home on the City of Seattle Saturday. Dr. Evans is a son of J. E. Evans who is connected with the Willson & Sylvester sawmill.

BIG LIBERTY LOAN DRIVE

The drive for the second installment of war bonds is upon us. The government is making another appeal to the people to help it in its war on autocracy—to render it aid in hastening the day of peace.

Mrs. Sadie Edmunson, principal of the Native school, has been appointed the Wrangell representative of the Council of National Defense, and is endeavoring to assist in the sale of Liberty Loan bonds. Mrs. Edmunson's first move was to address a communication to the various organizations of Wrangell requesting that each send a committee of three to a meeting that will be held at the town hall this evening to decide upon the manner in which this sale of bonds shall be brought before the people of Wrangell.

Following are some particulars concerning the second liberty loan:

1. A Loan. — You LEND your money at interest, you do not GIVE it.

2. Easy Payments. — A few dollars down buys a bond. Bankers and employers everywhere arrange payment of balance out of savings.

3. Superlative Safety. — The PROMISE to give you YOUR MONEY BACK, a promise signed by all our 110,000,000 people, including the signature of every multimillionaire in America. Your bond is like a MORTGAGE on the whole United States.

4. Safe Keeping. — ABSOLUTELY safe in any honest banker's vault; safer anywhere than currency, for it is plainly a receipt for money you deposited in the Treasury of the United States.

Territory of Alaska
By the Governor

A PROCLAMATION

Whereas the President of the United States by proclamation has designated Wednesday October 24, 1917, as Liberty Day, and has made the afternoon of that day a holiday for all federal employees throughout the country whose services can be spared for the Liberty Bond campaign and

Whereas the success of the Liberty Loan is so vital to the Nation that it is the first duty of every citizen to support to the utmost the financial measures essential to the effective and successful prosecution of the war and the observance of Liberty Day by the people of all the States and Territories of the Union should immeasurably stimulate the sale of Liberty Bonds the subscriptions to which will close October 27, 1917.

Now Therefore I, J. F. A. Strong, Governor of the Territory of Alaska, do in accordance with the proclamation of the President of the United States designate Wednesday, October 24, 1917, as Liberty day, and I do earnestly request that on the afternoon of that day all public offices, stores and all public places be closed and that the people of all towns and precincts so far as possible unite in some appropriate patriotic ceremony and demonstration to promote the success of the Liberty Loan, and I especially request that the mayors of all incorporated towns or local governing authorities do everything within their power in the way of cooperation in the celebration of Liberty Day to the end that nothing humanly possible shall be left undone in arousing the enthusiasm and support of the people of Alaska in the great struggle for the survival of Democracy in which our nation is engaged.

The people of Alaska are patriotic and their devotion to republican institutions has been proved by their acts many times and now they are expected to act well their part in the present grave crisis which confronts the nation. Lip service is of little avail in time of trouble. Action is needed, instant and complete, and the belief is expressed that our people will not fail it the great duty they now owe to the government which represents them in the conflict being waged between the forces of humanity and freedom against those of autocracy and oppression. Remember Liberty will not perish from the earth if Americans do their full duty.

Given under my hand and the seal of the Territory of Alaska in Juneau, the capital, this 17th day of October in the year of our Lord 1917, and of the independence of the United States the 142nd.

J. F. A. STRONG,
Governor.

as you live on any purchase not above $5.000.

6. Market Value. — You can sell your bond or borrow on it on a moment's notice.

7. The Government Is No Richer than the people. We need the $50 of the average man. All patriots must help.

London. — The Petrograd correspondent of the London Times says that anarchy is spreading throughout Russia—that in Petrograd alone the police are trying to cope with eighteen thousand criminals.

"You Are Not Worth Fighting For"

McAdoo Tells President of National Farmers Congress Who Refused to Cooperate in Sale of Liberty Bonds.

San Francisco. — There is one man in the United States who is not expected to assist the government in floating the "Second Liberty Loan of 1917." He is Dr. H. E. Stockbridge of Atlanta, Georgia and the "hands off" suggestion was made to him by Secretary of the Treasury, William G. McAdoo, following the announcement of Dr. Stockbridge's opposition to the loan based on his objection to pending postal legislation. "You are not worth fighting for" says Secretary McAdoo in a telegram to the Georgian.

Secretary McAdoo on September 22 telegraphed Dr. Stockbridge asking that as president of the Farmers' National congress, the Atlanta man communicate with the executive heads of other Farmers' organizations to ask their cooperation in the coming loan. In replying Dr. Stockbridge accused the Secretary and the administration of favoring the McKeller amendment providing for an increase of second-rate postage rates. "We refuse to become a party to the crime" is the closing statement of Dr. Stockbridge's telegram.

Secretary McAdoo's telegram in reply follows:

"Your telegram received. I understand your position to be that you will not assist the Government in selling the next Liberty Loan on the ground that the administration and I personally are supposed to favor the McKeller amendment, or the proposed increase in postal rates on second class mail matter which includes farm and other publications. As a matter of fact I am not in sympathy with this legislation and have said that I thought it had no place in the revenue bill, that this was an inopportune time to raise the issue and that it ought to be considered upon its merits in connection with postoffice legislation and not with revenue or Treasury matters.

"But even if I favored it, is that a reason why you should be unwilling to buy or assist in selling United States Government bonds. Is that a reason why you should refuse to lend money to your Government to enable it to supply the gallant sons of farmers and every other class of American citizens who have been drafted or who have volunteered to give their lives to protect your liberty and property the necessary guns with which to fight; the necessary clothing and food to support them in the field; the necessary life insurance and means to support their dependent families while they are at the front?

"Have you a son who has volunteered or who has been drafted into this noble service? If so, would you fail to buy a Liberty Bond to help him fight and to save his country and to protect his own life because the rates on second class mail matter may be increased? If you haven't a son you cannot feel what every mother and father of a gallant boy must feel when they see that boy go out to fight for his country.

"I am happy to believe that you speak for yourself alone and that you do not represent the

LAST TRIP OF SEASON FOR HAZEL B III

The Hazel B III arrived Saturday from Telegraph Creek on her last voyage of the year. During the past season the Hazel B III has maintained a regular schedule and has proved to be the most popular boat that has ever navigated the Stikine. The advent of Captain Sid Barrington on the Stikine has meant a great deal for Wrangell and the Cassiar district. When seen by the Sentinel reporter F. R. Sterling, the purser on the Hazel B III, stated that the boat would operate on the Stikine again next season, beginning as soon as the ice breaks. He said this season's business had been fair and that the outlook for next year is much better.

Mr. and Mrs. George H. Barnes and Elton Barnes sail south this week for Seattle. There are rumors concerning Elton and Seattle which this trip would seem to confirm, especially since his ticket does not take him farther than Seattle. Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Barnes have tickets for Sharon, Pa., where they will be the guests of Mrs. Barnes' father. Mr. Barnes has not been east in 30 years. Mrs. Barnes has not been east since '98. They will go from Pennsylvania to California. Mr. Barnes states that he will not be outside as long as usual this winter, as he expects to return to Wrangell by the first of February.

Mrs. Winifred Hyland and daughter, Miss Flora Hyland, arrived in Wrangell Saturday from Telegraph Creek on the Hazel B III. Mrs. Hyland reports that the past season at Telegraph Creek has been a most successful one. Business has been good and incidentally the big game hunters who hunted in the Cassiar district this year all got good bags. She reports that Messrs. W. N. Beach of New York and H. O. Harrison of San Francisco have already made arrangements to return next year. Mrs. Hyland and Miss Hyland will sail south on the Princess Alice Friday night en route to San Francisco where they will spend the winter. This week Mrs. Hyland showed her appreciation of the quality of job printing being turned out by the Sentinel by placing an order with us for a year's supply of printing.

Mrs. Marion Randolph Parsons, a literary woman of note who has been spending the summer at Telegraph Creek and Dease Lake, arrived in Wrangell on the Hazel B III Saturday. She will sail south Sunday on the Prince John en route to her home at Berkeley, California.

sentiment of any other farmer in America.

"The gallant boys now going into training must fight for the safety and liberty and prosperity of every man, woman and child in America, you included. If you really entertain the sentiments you have expressed in your telegram it is a pity that these brave men must fight for you, because you are not worth fighting for.

"I withdraw my request for your assistance in the sale of government bonds. The patriotic people of America will sustain their gallant soldiers and carry this war on to victory without your aid."

COMMUNICATION FROM HON. P. C. McCORMACK

Editor Sentinel:

My attention has been directed to an editorial in the Petersburg Report of September 7, entitled,
"Some Juneau Explaining" regarding the act of the last Legislature permitting Territorial road funds to be expended for waterway improvements, and quoting the Juneau Dispatch as stating that the bill was introduced in the Senate by Senator Heckman at the request of Representatives Monte Benson and P. C. McCormack.

I wish to state that in so far as my name is concerned the statement is incorrect and misleading.
The measure was passed in the Senate without my knowledge. The first intimation I had of its existence was when it came up for the first reading in the House, after its passage in the Senate. In view of these facts I fail to understand how the Dispatch could or should connect my name with any activity as to fostering the measure.

Regarding the merits or demerits of the bill and my attitude as to its passage, I will state that I considered such a course dangerous in that it might lead to willful abuse in the use of the road funds as originally intended. And for that reason I raised an objection in the committee. But upon investigation I found that the measure would afford relief to a great many settlers adjacent to Juneau and the Channel towns who had to go a long way to reach their destination and were also subjected to the great danger attending the longer passage. I also realized that the greater percentage of the population of this division is centered upon Gastineau channel. And for these reasons I felt that these settlers were entitled to the relief asked for in so far as the improvement and dredging of Gastineau channel was concerned. At the time I was assured that the cost would not exceed $15,000 or $20,000.

In view of the conditions as above stated, and realizing the necessity for the improvement, I did not press my objection in this connection. While I do not altogether approve of the diverting of funds intended for certain purposes to other uses I will state that in so far as the question involved is concerned I feel that under similar circumstances and conditions should any other section of the division be interested in the Legislature would be justified in taking similar action, but that such action should be specific as to actual work intended for certain improvement, and the expenditure should be limited so as not to interfere with needed improvement required in the different other sections of the division.

With reference to the statement of the Dispatch as to the possible improvement of Hawk Inlet under the provisions of said act I will admit that such action would be possible, or others that might be urged, owing to the fact that the act as passed was general instead of specific. However, I feel satisfied from the personnel of the Board of Road commissioners that they will see that all sections of the division will be accorded fair treatment.
Their mode of action may seem dilatory, yet we must admit that a new measure of this kind requires considerable preliminary work before much actual progress can be made. I anticipate general activity the coming year on all road work actually necessary.

In justice to myself, owing to the fact that the article in question reflected upon my action as representing the interests of my constituents, and also the fact that the article in question required an explanation from the representative of the southern end of the division, I trust that I have made myself clear in this matter and that you will give this letter space in your paper.

In conclusion, I will state that I was absent from the Territory when the article in question appeared, and I did not know that such an article had been published until this week when I was handed a copy of the paper containing the article, hence my delay in complying with the request for an explanation until this late date.

Respectfully,
P. C. McCORMACK.

BAFFLING PROBLEMS.

Poses That Man's Brain Has Never Been Able to Conquer.

For the man to whom the mysterious appeals there is no lack of problems which have baffled the cleverest brains for generations and in many cases for long centuries and still remain as far from solution as ever.

If he is mathematically inclined he can win immortal fame by solving the problem of how to "square the circle." The cleverest brains of all ages and countries have wrestled in vain to discover exactly the relation between the circumference and the diameter of a circle.

One Dutch professor gave nearly fifty years of his life to the task.
He worked out the equation to over 700 places of decimals and was then little nearer the end of his calculations than when he began.

No less elusive is the square root of two. Thousands of years in the aggregate have been spent in endeavoring to make this calculation.
It has been worked out to 111 places of decimals by one enthusiast, but the exact square root remains and probably always will remain unfound.

Ever since the days of the pharaohs scientists have been searching for the secret of changing base metals into gold, but the "philosopher's stone" has always proved a will-o'- the-wisp in its tantalizing elusiv-ness, and, although Edison declared the day of its discovery was drawing near, it still seems as remote as ever.

Countless men, too, have been driven to despair and almost to insanity in their efforts to discover perpetual motion, and the man who finds its secret will certainly win a fame greater than that of Newton himself.

Among historical questions to which the world has vainly sought an answer are the following: What was the real fate of Louis XVII of France, the boy who is said to have been buried in the temple prison?
Was the Chevalier d'Eon man or woman? Was Louis Philippe, king of the French, son of the Duc d'Or-leans or of an Italian policeman?
Is the Austrian Archduke Johann Orth, who is said to have died at sea in 1900, still alive, as so many believe?—Philadelphia Ledger.

Proverbs of Savages.

The proverbs of savages are shrewd and pithy. The Basutos say, "The thief catches himself;" the Yorubas, "He who injures another injures himself;" the Wolofs, "Before healing others heal yourself." In Acra they say, "Nobody is twice a fool;" among the Ojib, "The moon does not grow full in a day;" "The poor man has no friends." A Pashto proverb says, "A feather does not stick without gum." Others are,
"A razor cannot shave itself,"
"Cross the river before you abuse the crocodile," "Perseverance always triumphs," "The thread follows the needle," and "Preparation is better than afterthought."—Westminster Gazette.

Daniel Was a Worker.

Truly there were giants in colonial days. One Daniel Leake of Salisbury, N. H., made during his lifetime and was paid for 1,000,000 shingles. During the years he was accomplishing this colossal work he cleared 300 acres of land, tapped for twenty years at least 600 maple trees, making sometimes 4,000 pounds of sugar a year.
He could now six acres a day, giving nine tons of hay. His strong, long arms cut a swath twelve feet wide. In his spare time he worked as a cooper, and he was a famous drum maker.

THESE BOOTS CAN'T SPRING A LEAK

THEY'RE "HIPRESS"
Boots, made all in one piece --soles and uppers--without a seam to work loose. That's one reason why they're so different from the ordinary boot, the sole and upper of which are stuck together by hand.

"HIPRESS" Boots are made out of such tough stock--actually the same that goes into Goodrich Tires--that they outwear any other boot made. And they're the foot-easiest boot you ever

A MENTAL MYSTERY

By ALAN HINSDALE

We have become used to an electric station sending forth its power across a continent or an ocean without any other medium than the atmosphere, but few of us are prepared to admit that one human brain is capable of affecting another human brain without any other medium than that of the wireless telegraph.

Nevertheless, there are instances of such communication.

I believe that there is a mental force not yet explained scientifically that carries these messages, and I am going to give the reason why I have arrived at this conclusion.

I am an artist. From a child I have been absorbed in the beauties of nature and their transmission to another form. As a boy I could make these transformations so successfully that my pictures attracted the attention of my friends. Nothing would do but that I must be educated for an artist.

But there was no means for the purpose. A younger sister of mine had been left a small legacy by her grandmother. My sister--Eleanor was her name--insisted on devoting this money to my education. I declined to accept it at first, but she insisted that I would be a successful artist, my pictures would sell at good prices, and I could repay her. Thus encouraged, I consented and entered an art school.

Unfortunately my education took from me the ability I had shown in freehand drawing. The technique required for work that would pass the critics was obnoxious to me. Nevertheless, I persevered and mastered it. But I never regained the ability I had possessed to hit off something that indicated genius.

I spent several years after being graduated at the art school painting pictures, which were no better than hundreds of other artists could paint. I regretted that I had accepted my sister's loan, for I was scarcely able to make enough money to keep body and soul together, to say nothing of paying what I had borrowed.

One winter I broke down in health and in the spring was told I must have change of scene and air to build up my strength. In my weakened condition my debt to my sister got on my mind, and I could not get it off. Eleanor begged me to stop worrying about it, but without success. I was sent off to the seashore and lodged in a fisherman's cottage.

One morning I was sitting on the porch of the cottage looking out on the ocean. The sun was glinting the blue waves which were rolling in and breaking on the beach. Some fishermen were getting out their boat, gulls were flying hither and thither overhead, one occasionally darting down to pounce upon a fish. I was seized with a desire--natural to an artist--to portray this scene.

I had not been permitted to bring my artist's tools with me, so I could not do as I wished. As I sat in my comfortable wicker chair, fanned by a balmy sea breeze, I began to work over an imaginary canvas, laying down on it the view before me. The picture grew in my mind as plainly as if I were really putting it on canvas. I worked without effort--or at least seemed to do so--and was conscious of transferring the scene before me exactly as it was without the loss of any of its subtle beauties.

Nevertheless there must have been a severe mental effort, for as soon as I had finished my imaginary or mental work I lost consciousness and knew nothing till late in the afternoon, when I found myself in bed.

It was some time before I gained sufficient strength to go home. When I returned my sister told me that there was no further necessity for me to worry about my debt to her, for it had been paid. I asked her who had paid it, and she said that I had paid it myself. Further than that she would give me no information until I had fully recovered.

One day after I had got stronger I went, unbeknown to any one, to a room at home that I had used for a studio. There was a desk in it, and, going to this desk without any definite object, I noticed a pigeonhole that had been empty was now full of papers. I took them out and found they were letters that had accumulated during my illness. I opened one and read it. It was from a dealer in pictures asking me if I had any of my work for sale. He had a constant demand for it. Astonished, I opened another and another. They were all requests for my pictures.

While I was thus engaged my sister came in. She seemed much put out that I had come upon the letters. But the explanation must now come out, and she gave it to me.

One morning while I was at the seashore she had come into my studio and something, she knew not what, had prompted her to sit down before my easel, take my implements and begin to sketch. She had no ability whatever as an artist and was astonished to see a marine view grow on the canvas. Nevertheless, when she had finished she had no idea that she had produced a marvelous picture.

Her production was admired, and, attaching my name to it, she took it to a dealer, who sold it for $5,000. I went to see the painting, and what was my amazement to see that it was the scene I had mentally painted while at the fisherman's cottage. I had painted it with the freehand excellence of my youth, and yet it was a finished picture.

"THESE MEN MUST HAVE OUR BEST"

Chairman Davison's Appeal For $100,000.000 For the Red Cross.

In his remarkable appeal for $100,000,000 Henry P. Davison, chairman of the Red Cross War Council, said in part:

"We ask for $100,000,000. It is a large sum of money; but, believe me, the people of this country are not only going to supply that one hundred million, but a very great deal more. . . ."

"Hundreds of American doctors and nurses are already at the front. A force of 12,000 American engineers will soon be rebuilding the railroads of France. Upward of 25,000 American men are now on the battlefields of Europe fighting as volunteers in the allied armies. Soon 25,000 American regulars will be added to their number. All our national guard is to be mobilized, our regular army is to be recruited to full strength, and 500,000 other men are shortly to be called to the colors. Within a few months we should and will have in service an army of 1,000,000 and a navy of 150,000 men.

"These men must have of our best. To prepare against their needs in advance will be a stupendous task which the Red Cross must undertake. Doctors, nurses and ambulances must be made ready. Vast quantities of hospital stores, linen, bandages and supplies of every kind must be prepared, and once. If we wait it may be too late. When we ask our own sons and brothers to fight for our liberty 3,000 miles from home in a country already sore and afflicted, surely we cannot do less than prepare to take care of them in their day of suffering."

This photograph shows only part of the nurses, surgeons, etc., of Presbyterian base hospital unit No. 2, now in Europe for war service. This unit includes 25 surgeons, 50 nurses and administrative staff of more than 100 orderlies, chauffeurs, cooks, mechanics, etc.

+ SECRETARY BAKER'S PLEA FOR THE RED CROSS +
+ We are separated from the actual scene of this conflict by thousands of miles of sea. Our losses in it have as yet been minor. We are entering the war in the firm belief and purpose of ending it in a victory for right, and we have not the slightest intention of stopping until that victory is achieved. . . . +
+ I think if anybody would ask me how much he ought to give to the Red Cross at this time I would say, "All you have." +
+ That is a counsel of perfection, I know, but then it would not be enough. I understand the war council has set itself the task of raising $100,000,000. That may sound to some like a large amount, and yet this war is costing in actual money every day from $60,000,000 to $70,000,000 and in human life from 10,000 to 15,000 of those who are killed in actual warfare, without counting those who starve and die of disease. +
+ The Red Cross of the United States of America has set itself the great task of raising for, one might say, cosmic philanthropy, a sum equal to the destruction which the war entails in a day. +

Although an integral part of the one system, each branch has been assigned to it the full amount of capital required by the Territorial Banking Board for the establishment of a Bank in such a location. Each branch is therefore equipped to serve its customers as fully as any independent bank but with the added strength and resources of the entire institution to draw upon. Furthermore each is responsible to the Territorial Banking Board, is examined and supervised independently and renders its statement direct to the Board. The Bank of Alaska is therefore, because of its double supervision and safeguards, peculiarly "An Institution of Strength and Character."

Lady Barrington Dead

The Herald, of North Sydney, Nova Scotia, of a recent date, contains the news of the death of Lady Matilda Barrington, wife of Sir Yorke Barrington, uncle of Captain Syd Barrington and Captain Hill Barrington. Sir Yorke was a brother of the father of the two Northland captains.

The Swiss Reformation.

St. Philip's Church, Sunday Oct. 21, 7:30 P.M.

The Swiss Reformation was contemporary with the German Reformation but not a result of it, though it was influenced by it.

The Reformation had spread over Switzerland when John Calvin, having been driven out of France by persecution went to Geneva to teach school.

The Revivalist John Farrel caused Calvin to give up his plan as a teacher and take charge of the church in Geneva. Calvin did so. He found Geneva the most immoral city in Europe and left it the most moral.

In the lecture, it will be shown how an accident kept the Swiss church from becoming Episcopal instead of Presbyterian.

More should attend these lectures that they may better appreciate what the Christianity of today cost, and not let indifference, the sin of the age, destroy it and lead the world back to paganism.
